PLANNING THE CHILDREN'S MEALS

No child should be permitted to go without breakfast. If he is unable to eat it stop and think whether he has had enough restful sleep in a bed by himself. Has he had fresh air enough, both night and day? Is he being offered really palatable, as well as nutritious, food or does he need a little discipline to give him more self-control? Children are generally best nourished with three regular meals each day, and one of these should be breakfast, which should yield nearly one-third of the energy value of the day's food.

Breakfast for Children one and a half to two Years Old
Children in the second half of the second year have breakfast in three sections:

1 6 A. M. A cup of warm milk.
2 8:30 to 9 A. M. Two or three tablespoons of orange juice (preferably diluted with a little boiled water) or of prune juice and pulp.
3 9:30 or 10 A. M. About a half cup of well-cooked cereal rubbed thru a sieve and served with warm milk. This is followed by enough more milk to drink to make a cup in all, and a small piece of stale bread or toast.

Breakfast for Children two to twelve Years old.

Children over two have all their breakfast at one time, about 7 o'clock. The most important item is a well-cooked cereal, whole wheat having first place on account of its high nutritive value.

For a special treat, a few dates cut in pieces or a little molasses may be stirred into the cereal just before serving, or ripe bananas.

Milk should be served liberally but sugar sparingly.

It is best to get variety in breakfast by serving different kinds of fruit, if they can be afforded. Oranges, stewed apples, pears, pineapple cut fine across the grain, are suitable for the younger children, except the three year old, who should have juice of strained pulp.

FIRST SHRINE MOTOR CARAVAN ACROSS NATION TO PASS THRU DENVER, LEAVING EAST MAY 1

Plans for the first transcontinental Shrine Caravan are developing rapidly, according to Bernard McMahan, field director of the Colorado-to-Gulf highway, who was in Denver last week. McMahan said that due to the fact that the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway association is bringing the eastern and southern Shriners Washington thru the southern states to Texas, much of the travel from the south to the Rockies and the Pacific coast that has previously gone north and then west, will come west into Texas and then northwest into New Mexico and Colorado.

The caravan is scheduled to leave Washington May 1. It will traverse Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Colorado (thru Pueblo to Denver and back to Raton) and Arizona on its way to Los Angeles. Stops will be made at all the points of scenic interest along the route.

Captain McMahan will pilot the caravan all the way from Washington. He plans to bring the Shriners into Amarillo, Texas, in time for the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway association convention which meets May 23 and 24. He working in co-operation with California automobile clubs in planning the tour.

"The Colorado-to-Gulf highway provides a new artery of travel for the many southern and eastern motorists who always have associated Texas with desert and cactus, and a result of the Shrine caravan's coming thru the southern states, this May hundreds of cars will be following their routing thru the entire season. This undoubtedly will develop into a constantly increasing annual tour said McMahan.

The American Legion dance at Mosquero last Saturday night was best attended and the boys realized a nice sum to apply on their new Legion home.

GLADSTONE

Luther Gibbs has purchased the Duncan blacksmith shop and is now prepared to do all kinds of blacksmithing and car repair work. He moved his house from his farm into town and will make Gladstone his home.

About one-fourth of an inch of rain fell in this section last Monday. It would hardly be worthy of mention but with the exception of one snow, it is the only precipitation we have had since last fall. It renews our faith in the weather man and we hope a much heavier one will come soon. Some believe that all chance for a wheat crop isn't lost, but it can't be determined definitely for a week or more.

Mr. Joe Griffin and his sons Ruba and Bemus started for Farmington, N. M. and Grand Junction, Colo., last week in their Ford on a homeseeking trip. They got to Taos and heard that heavy snows had fallen in the mountains, so came back. They expect to make the trip later.

John Gilliam is building a new barn at this writing.

Mr. H. M. Smith of May, Okla. is here attending to the shelling and marketing of his corn on his farm and also the corn on the M. J. Fleming farm. He sold 1000 bushel to the Jaritas ranch at Abbott and hired several farmers to do the hauling. He says he had travelled over Colorado, Arizona, Wyoming and other Rocky Mountain and Pacific slope states since last fall and failed to find any location that looked as good as northeastern N. M.

A new mistress arrived at the John Gilliam home last week and has taken complete charge. The Baby and mother are both doing nicely and by following the doctors directions, John will be out of danger soon.
